Magazine Tells Mardikian Story

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — California's first man of the kitchen is George Mardikian, also known as "the unofficial mayor of San Francisco." In the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post John Kobler tells the story of the former Armenian, now a sincere American flag waver, whose foods attract the West Coast celebrities.

"Located in the heart of San Francisco, his restaurant occupies a plushy, low - ceilinged basement suite, paneled in dark oak and carpeted in luxuriant green. . . But the exotic atmosphere centers chiefly in George himself, who follows his specialties to the table, discoursing lyrically on their history. . ."

"George is probably the only topnotcher in the restaurant business who started life as a starving Armenian. As a fugitive from a Turkish concentration camp where the fare was limited to sawdust mulled in warm water, he promised himself, should he survive, a career involving food."

"George felt he had reached the top rung when, in rapid succession, he won the national restaurant management prize, then was invited to serve the annual dinner of the International Wine and Food Society."

"Next to preparing such dishes as Kouzou Kzartma and Yolangi Dolina, Mardikian likes to make speeches before patriotic societies and to devise ways of cutting food waste.

"George considers garbage cans an invention of the devil. 'I used to wash dishes next to one,' he says. 'I'd see all the food people left on their plates and I'd remember my starving people in Armenia.' To discourage this waste, he recently inaugurated a bold new policy and is trying to persuade other restaurants to do likewise. Every customer who cleans his plate gets a 10 per cent rebate on his food bill."

Armstrong To Head Toastmasters' Club

Chester Armstrong will be installed as president of the Toastmasters' Club at its meeting next Monday night. He was chosen president at last Monday night's meeting. .

Other officers to be installed are Frederic Gibbs, vice president; Norman Meyer, secretary-treasurer, and Scovel Mayo, sergeant-at-arms. Next Monday night will be Ladies' Night. Eugene Hoffman will be master of ceremonies.

At last Monday's meeting Guido Brandolini spoke on "South America in World Affairs"; Rudolph Kalenborn, "World Union Is Coming," and Ross Winchester, "Faith." Ray Moore was chairman of the meeting; Dr. Virgil Anderson, critic.

The origin of the name Uncle Sam is unknown; it was being used about the time of the outbreak of the war of 1812.

'Junior Miss' Starts Sunday

With a great laughter provoking record of success behind it, "Junior Miss," the latest comedy hit staged by Max Gordon, producer of "My Sister Eileen," will start an engagement at the Curran Theater, San Francisco on Sunday evening, January 24. Not only is "Junior Miss" presented by the producer of "Eileen," but it was written by the men who dramatized that roaring comedy, Jerome Chodorov and Joseph Fields. It comes after an engagement of over 500 performances in New York.

One of the reasons for the success of "Junior Miss" is that it deals with the daily life of an ordinary family, and every spectator, grown up or adolescent, sees something of himself, his own folks or his friends, in the characters on the stage. In this respect "Junior Miss" is very much like "Life With Father," which also brought home to the audiences the ludicrous aspects of every day family life, although girls are the central juvenile figures in the lively comedy coming to the Curran instead of boys.

Judy, the junior miss of the title (played by Lenore Thomas), is a very young lady whose idea of what life really is has been acquired from the movies; and, therefore, she dramatizes the most innocent situations in terms of what she has seen on the screen. This applies also to her boon companion, "Fuffy" (acted by Peggy Romano), and between them they almost bring disaster upon Judy's family by deciding from an innocent happening that a "crisis" such as they saw in the picture, "Wife Vs. Secretary," is developing in Judy's home. The result is that, in trying in her own impulsive, imaginative way to save her home, Judy almost wrecks it. But not quite. After many harassing and laughable incidents father is vindicated and the family saved.

Lois Wilson and Eddie Nugent, as the parents, Eileen Clarence as Judy's elder sister, Harry Ellerbe and Adrienne Marden who furnish the love interest, Loring Smith as a big business tycoon and Renie Riano as an acid-tongued maid, round out the principals in the well chosen cast of 22.

Utility Company Sets Safety Record

Out of approximately 12,000 employes of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., only one lost his life through accident in 1942, the central safety committee of the utility company reported today.

The electrical department made a clean score for the year without a single fatality charged against it, something that has not happened since 1932. The one death of the year was suffered by an employe of the gas department who slipped while painting a steep roof and fell to the ground. Investigation showed that he had failed to make use of a safety line provided for the purpose.

During 1942, a 25 per cent reduction in the number of most serious accidents was recorded and a drop of 75 per cent in man days lost because of accidental injuries accomplished a saving of 251,560 man hours over previous annual time losses.

The letter "S" is said to be the most frequently used capital initial letter in the English language.

LIGHT
AS A WAR WORKER!

Adequate light and normal eyesight are essential tools in war production work today.

When war came, it brought a challenge to the lamp makers. With industries operating on a 24-hour daily schedule, lamp production had to be stepped up. And this had to be done without draining metals, materials and manpower needed elsewhere.

The lamp makers promptly went into war economies. They substituted ingenuity for scarcity.

And they have met completely and competently the production challenge of increased output presented by the war industries' demands.

As a result of these steps, light is not their only contribution to America's cause. Tons of vital metals were conserved. Solder, which is 50% tin, is now made of lead and silver. Lamp parts previously made of solid copper, nickel and brass, are now made of iron and steel, plated with copper, brass or nickel.

This is a story not only of industrial achievement but of earnest, carefully-planned patriotic cooperation in the war effort.

San Mateo Man Sues Bus Company

J. Mortimer Clark of San Mateo today had filed suit in superior court at Redwood City for $1042.50 property damages against Pacific Greyhound Lines.

The suit charges that a Pacific Greyhound bus driven by A. P. Youngblood collided with Clark's automobile at Third Ave. and San Mateo Dr., San Mateo, Dec. 1, 1941, damaging the automobile. Clark claims the accident was caused by negligence on the part of Youngblood.

Company Urges Oil Changes

Instead of watching the speedometer to determine when your car needs an oil change, check the calendar, say Shell Oil Co. lubrication engineers.

Now that mileage rationing keeps the average automobile owner from driving his car more than 500 miles every two months, if the change to fresh, clean oil coincides with the change of mileage ration book coupon numbers, motorists will be assured that their automobile engines are getting safe lubrication. In other words, when you change from the "3" coupons to the "4" series, on Jan. 22, that is a good time to have the oil changed also. Likewise, the dates March 22 and May 22 should be remembered as oil-changing dates.

Reason for this, engineers say, is that reduced driving under gasoline rationing conditions means cold starts, shorter trips and lower driving speeds, which all tend to keep the engine from getting hot enough to vaporize water formed by condensation and combustion. Instead, the water accumulates in the crankcase causing dilution and contamination of the oil. Dust and abrasives carried through the air also help to contaminate and reduce oil efficiency. Further deterioration is caused by partially burned fuel particles.

M. P. PRISONER

MENLO PARK — Sgt. Herbert Dort, Menlo Park resident who has been listed as missing since the fall of Bataan, is definitely a prisoner of the Japanese, according to word received by his wife from the War Department.

Bonus meats in the menu

There's no need of too much worry about making your meat allowance stretch when there are all those delicious bonus meats that can be had (at least at this writing). I speak of sundry meats such as liver, heart, kidney, pigs' feet and all those extras that don't come in on the meat quota.

As far as nutritional value goes, they have everything that other meats have, and in most cases, more too. Liver, heart, and kidney are right on top of the list when it comes to contributing iron to the diet. They're vitamin-foods, too, for they contain vitamins A, B, C, and some D.

If you've built up a psychological resistance toward them, it is most likely because you've probably never tried them. But if you like chicken giblets, then you're bound to like these bonus meats.

MOCK GIBLET NOODLES — Saute small pieces of liver or kidney or precooked heart in hot shortening. Make a sauce out of the pan drippings or use mushroom sauce and add meat and sauce to hot noodles. Don't pass judgment on sundries until you've tried this dish.

SPANISH KIDNEY—Remove white centers and tubes of kidneys, slice into thin slices, brown quickly in hot shortening along with chopped onion. Cover with tomato sauce or canned tomatoes and steam for about 15 minutes. Serve with rice or spaghetti.

BAKED LIVER CASSEROLE — Place liver slices in a greased casserole, top with sliced, tart apples and sliced onion, season to taste. Add bacon drippings or other meat drippings if you have them, and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for about 1½ hours or until liver is tender. Remove cover during the last 10 minutes.

BAKED HEART—Wash heart, remove arteries and veins. Simmer slowly in water until tender, adding 1 tsp. salt for each quart of water when half done. Allow about 2 hours for calf, lamb, and pork hearts and about 3 to 3½ hours for beef hearts. Stuff precooked heart with your favorite dressing, and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for about 30 minutes or until hearts are well browned.

LIVER BURGERS—Grind uncooked liver, using the coarse knife of the grinder, add about ⅓ as much bread crumbs, chopped onions and seasonings to taste. Add enough beaten egg or evaporated milk to bind mixture, shape into patties and fry quickly. Grand with whole kernel corn.

War Is NOT Baseball

By Don Herold

WE Americans are a little too apt to think of the war as a baseball game.

In the first inning, our team makes a home-run, and we throw our hats in the air and yell our heads off.

And then we sit down and mop our brows as if we, personally, had hit the home-run.

The nine guys out there on the field know that the game has just started.

The difference between war and baseball is that in war there aren't any bleachers. Or, rather, everybody in the bleachers is on the team.

We've done some swell little jobs in the Pacific, but have actually killed only a few hundred Japs. It's peanuts, compared to what we have to do to LICK Japan.

We pulled a smooth one in Africa, but have as yet killed only a few hundred Germans and Italians. It's peanuts, compared to what we have to do to LICK Germany.

We're a long way—yet—from that seventh-inning stretch.

"No harm," says one of us, "if I, just I, relax and stretch a little, now that our team has got North Africa."

No, no harm, except that if you sneak a stretch, 130,000,000 other Americans will probably sneak the same stretch.

The hour you coast on the job, the day you needlessly stay home from work, the bond you don't buy—all the little let-downs you give yourself—must be multiplied by 130,000,000.

THAT is the first lesson of war: to see what you do or don't do multiplied by 130,000,000.

In war, the bleachers are part of the team.

Business Training Offered J-M Girls

The corps of messenger girls especially trained to serve Johns-Manville's administrative offices in New York will be almost doubled and hours of actual work cut nearly in half by terms of a new policy soon in effect.

Every qualified girl is to have opportunity to receive excellent secretarial or other specialized training.

On completion of her training she will have a preferred place on the waiting list for appointment as stenographer, typist, comptometer or other business machine operator.

Care will be exercised through aptitude tests to determine her fitness and aptitude for the career chosen.

And she'll earn while she learns because there will be no reduction in her weekly salary even though she is to spend only 25 hours of the week in the role of messenger. The regular work week at the J-M general offices is 40 hours but the messenger girls who share in the training program will put in 15 hours each week at school. Expenses will be cared for by J-M.

New girls joining the corps will have the same privilege. All must be high school graduates and at least 18 years of age.

"Messenger boys are out for the duration," explained those in charge of the training program, "and we propose to make girlpower a highly efficient cog in the J-M machine by linking school and office."

J-M FAMILY ALBUM

Street Scene in Asbestos—Canadian worker at Asbestos, Quebec, where J-M operates world's largest asbestos mine, doesn't rely on this equipage to get to his job; but it serves him in good stead for heavy hauling. Note the modern touch—the auto wheels and chassis back of the sturdy yoke of oxen.

Doing a Man's Job!

Women workers are increasing steadily on J-M payrolls. Many of them are successfully handling machines and doing work previously performed by men in the armed services.

Latest figures show that 18 percent of J-M's hourly employees are women; carefully trained and enthusiastic over their jobs, they're proving highly efficient in the war production drive.
